Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work. Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping impure, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries. It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Board of Equalization.

The Trustees of the City of Sonoma will meet on the second Monday in August, 1900, to-wit, on August 13th, 1900,

at 10 o'clock, a. m., at the City Pavilion, in said city, and sit as a Board of Equalization and equalize the Assessment Roll, as provided in Section 872 of the Municipal Government Act, and in Ordinance No. 41 of said city.

The Board will continue in session from day to day until all the returns of the City Assessor shall have been ratified.

All persons desiring a reduction in the valuation of their property must make and file with said Board a written notification therefor, verified by oath, showing the facts upon which such reduction is sought.

JOE B. SMALL, City Clerk.

Sonoma, July 28th, 1900

Nasal Catarrh quickly yields to treatment by Ely's Cream Balm, which is agreeably aromatic. It is received through the nostrils, cleanses and heals the whole surface over which it diffuses itself. Druggists sell the 50c. size; Trial size by mail, 10 cents. Test it and you are sure to continue the treatment.

Announcement.

To accommodate those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles, the proprietors prepare Cream Balm in liquid form, which will be known as Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Prices including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid form embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation.

THE SCAPEGOAT

No one knew anything about the little widow. She moved into the neighborhood without so much as a "by your leave." Mrs. Clara Herford was the inscription on her cards. It looked strange and unconventional. But by the time the ladies had decided that such an inscription was unusual they had called—and so it was too late.

She had, fortunately or unfortunately, a lovely face, with red gold hair, violet eyes, a dazzling complexion, small, comely, perfect teeth. It is a little suspicious for a woman to be as beautiful as that. Still, Mrs. Richard Henry Sands, the most exclusive woman in the neighborhood, overlooked this splendor of countenance and invited her to her first luncheon of the winter.

The conversation turned on jewels. Mrs. Sands, a lady looking bold, with a delicious accent born of temperamental boldness, exhibited to be the most useful member of the family. She took care of the younger children, mended and made over ancient garments with an ingenuity that amounted to positive genius, assumed the charge of the housekeeping and spent long hours in trimming Eudora's dresses and bonnets until even the fault-finding beauty was compelled to acknowledge that "really, Chrissy made herself quite useful." When the summer came and the little tribe of Chaloners began to grow pale and droop in the burning reflection of city pavements, there was no question of Saratoga or Long Branch. Economy must be studied.

The family were taken to the farm of the Elders, where board was cheap. And, as Miss Chaloner had nothing to do but to amuse herself by trying to fascinate Reuben Elder, the farmer's only son.

"He's a handsome fellow," said she; "but I don't fancy him if he were only rich and had a little more of the savoir faire of society about him."

And so, with a tact truly admirable, she contrived to keep Reuben out of the debatable ground just outside of a proposal, until she went away and took a leave of him which convinced the young man that his hopes were unfounded.

"I shall always be glad to see you," said Eudora with a drop of her lovely golden eyelashes.

"I was right," thought Eudora; "he would have made a fool of himself if I hadn't kept him at arm's length."

Some weeks afterward Miss Chaloner went to a ball, but before she drove away in the carriage of Mrs. Colonel Leclair, who was good enough to call for her, she had a visitor.

Reuben Elder, it is you?" cried Miss Chaloner rather impatiently. "So sorry I'm going out this evening! I hope your mother is well?"

Reuben looked at her with eyes of admiration. Never had he seen her so beautiful as she appeared now, with her hair all in a fluff of gold about her face.

"Eudora," he said, taking her hand, "I have traveled a long way to see you. Will you let me have one word with you before you go out?"

"Mrs. Leclair is waiting!" "I won't keep her waiting long. It is only for you to speak one little word to tell me whether or no you will be my wife!"

"I really think—that is, I am quite certain you have altogether misunderstood me, Reuben," said the young lady. "Of course, I'm very fond of you as a cousin, but I couldn't think of you in any other light."

"Oh, Reuben, don't mind her! She is as cold and cruel as ice! She doesn't know what love means!"

"Is it you, Chrissy?" he said with a smile to his mother as right. She said: "What was the flower of the flock. She wanted me to fall in love with you, Chrissy."

"Reuben!" "What would you answer have been had I asked you the same question that I asked Eudora? Would you like to come to the 'old farmhouse'?"

"And could you love me?" Christine looked up into his face and then suddenly averted her startled eyes. But in that one glance Reuben Elder read the secret of her heart.

When Miss Chaloner came sleepily down to breakfast the next morning, she learned that Christine and Reuben were to be married and return together to their farm the next week.

"You're welcome to him, my dear," said Eudora maliciously. "I never did fancy secondhand bargains myself."

But Chrissy was too serenely happy for any such taunts and innuendoes to sting her.

"It was strange about the fortune, Dora, wasn't it?" "Portentous! What fortune? What on earth are you talking about?" cried Eudora rather tartly as she broke open a roll the next morning.

"Why, that old miser up in Brattleboro—Sung Sam, that boy used to call him—has died and left all his money to Reuben Elder! He was some distant relative to Reuben's mother, I believe, and Reuben once interfered when the boys were young, and Sung Sam said then that he would leave his money to Reuben when he died; but he was always making outlandish speeches, and nobody paid any attention to it. But it seems he kept his word, and Reuben is a millionaire. He came here to tell you of it, Eudora, but you wouldn't stay and listen to it!"

THE WIND AT THE DOOR.

THE WIND AT THE DOOR.

Often to my door Comes a twilight visitor. When the mountain summer day From our valley takes his way, And the journeying shadows stride Over the green mountain side, Down the clove among the trees Moves the ghostly wandering breeze. With the first stars on the crest And the pale light in the west He comes up the dark ravine Where no traveler is seen. Yet his coming makes a stir In the house of Ash and Fir. "Master, it's in our abode!" Batches whisper at their sill As he passes up the hill. "Stranger, underneath our boughs There is ample room to house." "Friends, I have another quest Than your cool abiding rest." And the fluttering Aspen knows Where step by step he goes— "Honor, lord, thy silver tree And the chamber laid for thee." "Say, I must be faring on. For tonight I seek my own. Breath of the red dust is he Here a wayfarer like me. Here a moment and then lost On a trail confused and crooked. And I gently would surprise Recognition in his eyes: Touch his hand and talk with him When the forest light is dim, Taking counsel with the lord Of the utterable word."

"Hark, did you hear some one stir The west wind furiously And then move among the leaves In the shadow of the eaves? The red curtain at the door Rustled; there's my visitor! Who comes searching for his kin. Enter, brother, I'm within."

—Bliss Carman in Scribner's.

SHORT LIVED COMPLIMENT.

Archibald Forbes' Experience With a Colored Caliban.

There is a delightfully human story which Archibald Forbes, the famous war correspondent, told, rather at his own expense, of his gratification at the apparent desire of the "man and brother" for higher intellectual culture. On arriving at the station at West Chester, Pa., where he was to lecture, a colored caliban, it is said, offered his services to convey him to his hotel. When he got there, Mr. Forbes asked the extent of remuneration expected for the journey. The darkie replied:

This unusual request from a caliban struck him not only as singular and laudable, but as quite complimentary to him, so he said:

"Certainly. And haven't you got a missis?" "Oh, yes, sah; I'se got a missis!" "Well, you shall have one for her."

And he requested his agent to hand to the knowledge seeker the requisite passes for the entertainment. On reaching the lecture room he cast a glance over the audience to see his colored friend, but he had not arrived, nor did he put in an appearance. Next morning, on getting into the same man's vehicle to go to the station, Mr. Forbes said:

"No, sah; I we' not dar."

"But, you know, I gave you tickets for yourself and wife."

"Yes, sah; I know that, sah, but you see, sah, I jes' sold dem tickets for $1, sah, 'cause I'd rather hab de cash, sah."—Philadelphia Call.

A MIGHTY TRIBE.

Once upon a time the Rev. Thomas K. Beecher of Elmira, N. Y., brother to Henry Ward Beecher, got into some sort of a quarrel with a man named Smith down at Cohoes. Thomas K. Beecher wrote the presumptuous man a defiant little note, saying curtly:

"Do you want to get into a quarrel with the Beecher family?"

"Do you want to fight with the Smith family?"

And no Beecher could stand that. Thomas K. laughed and hastened to make terms.—Los Angeles Times.

Mr. Gordonker and Miss Granice are graduates of the Sonoma High School, which speaks well for our local educational institution and its able principal Prof. Benj. Weed.

At the Republican primaries in this place Tuesday M. J. Haraszthy was turned away from the polls by election officers Poppe and Breitenbach although he offered to make an affidavit before a Notary Public that he voted the Republican ticket two years ago and would support the nominees this fall. Could these unfair election officers swear to the contrary?

THE Republican primaries in this place Tuesday, as conducted by election officers Poppe and Breitenbach, who alone are responsible, was a disgrace to the party and no fair minded man dare say otherwise.

JUDGE BARHAM has denied the report that he is a candidate for Congress. He is quoted as saying "I am not a candidate for the office and don't want it."

COUNTY NEWS ITEMS.

Almost the entire business portion of Geyersville was destroyed by fire Thursday morning last.

Walter C. Good died suddenly in Santa Rosa last Wednesday from an overdose of morphine taken accidentally.

Walter Jacoma, a Petaluma painter, fell from a second story window of the Washington Hotel late Sunday night, and was very seriously injured, and may not survive. Jacoma's left leg was badly broken, a bad fracture of the skull was received, and the man's face was bruised. Jacoma was under the influence of liquor when he was assisted to the top of the stairway. He evidently went to the open rear window and after sitting down therein lost his balance and fell. The unfortunate man struck on his feet in a sink, and then pitched forward, striking heavily on the floor. The leg was badly shattered, and the fracture extended about three inches across the skull above the left eye.

For nearly half a day three men in two boats chased a buck in Tomales bay Sunday before the deer was shot and crippled so that the hunters could get close enough to cut its throat, says the Santa Rosa Press Democrat. The hunters were James Perry, Frank Zartman and B. Bryant of Petaluma. Bryant started the deer and it ran into the lake. He chased it for several hours but could not get near enough to dispatch it. Then the other two men joined in and after Perry shot the deer Zartman reached under the water and cut its throat with a knife. The other fellow's boat grounded on a sandbar. The sail was set and the wind upset the boat. The carcass of the deer was divided between the three men.

M. A. HARASZTHY, a grandson of the late lamented Gen. M. G. Vallejo, not allowed to cast his ballot at the Republican primaries in this place, although he voted the Republican ticket two years ago and offered to swear to support the nominees this fall. The excuse given for rejecting his vote was that he was a Democrat. The true reason, however, was because he did not belong to the same faction of the party as Julius Poppe and Lou's Breitenbach.

Mrs. Ellen Cassebohm is keeping house for her brother M. Akers, at his home in this place. She expects to return to Petaluma in about four weeks.

Several large bands of wild duck have made their appearance in the marshes bordering Sonoma creek. The early appearance of the birds ensures good shooting when the season opens.

Carp are said to be quite scarce in Sonoma creek. For years this fish has been feeding off young trout and has done more than any other one thing to ruin trout fishing in Sonoma valley streams. The cause of the gradual disappearance of the carp is said to be the striped bass who is the natural enemy of that fish. As high as five and six young carp have been found in the capacious maw of a number of bass that have recently been caught in Schell's slough.

VINEBURG EVENTS.

R. M. Sims spent Sunday at Rhinefarm.

Ninety-three guests dined at Roque's farm Sunday.

Why let all your neighbors and friends think you must be twenty years older than you are? Yet it's impossible to look young with the color of 70 years in the hair. It's sad to see young persons look prematurely old in this way. Sad because it's all unnecessary; for gray hair may always be restored to its natural color by using—AYER'S Hair Vigor

TO THE DEAF.

A rich lady, cured of her deafness and noises in the head by Dr. Nichol's Artificial Ear Drums, gave $10,000 to his Institute, so that deaf people unable to procure the Ear Drums, may have them free. Address 776, The Nicholson Institute, 780 Eighth Avenue, New York.

The English Army Officer.

In olden days in England the army and the church were the only callings that could in any way be considered aristocratic, for they claimed almost a monopoly of physical and mental power. Times have changed, but the powers that decide what is and what is not aristocratic are intensely conservative, and they still uphold the claims of the army to distinction of this sort.

The soldier, as attached by service to his sovereign, the recognized head of the aristocracy, is an acknowledged supporter and member of that class. The military element represents the physical force of the country, to which in any extremity the final appeal must be made, and so its officers are a part of the ruling power, which is assumed to be aristocratic. The soldier, too, draws his income directly from the state and is not compelled to seek the favor of the general public, as members of other professions must. He is independent of all popular influence and pressure and so stands high in social rank and esteem. — London Answers.

Very Unusual

It is very unusual for a regular physician of good reputation to publicly endorse a proprietary remedy. We have often heard of cases where doctors receive the following voluntary letter from C. F. Smith, M. D., the most successful physician of Olean, N. Y.:

"Messrs. W. H. Hooker & Co., New York City: I wish to add my professional testimony to the value of your English preparation known as Acker's English Remedy for Asthma, etc. In several instances, after I have tried my utmost to give even relief, I have prescribed your remedy, and it has acted almost like a miracle, not only relieving, but permanently curing every one of the patients. I endorse the preparation as one of the most valuable additions to the practice of medicine."

Such a frank endorsement as the above is phenomenal. Coming from so distinguished a member of the medical profession, it carries with it an assurance which the public will be sure to avail themselves of. It is recommended like this which make it possible to give the broad guarantee that is a part of every sale of Acker's English Remedy for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption. It must either do all that is claimed for it, or your money will be refunded. Do you know of any other medicine sold on those terms? Do you know of any other medicines which prominent doctors regularly prescribe in their own practice as being better than prescriptions they write themselves? These facts are well worth considering. They are of special interest to those with sore throats and weak lungs.

Sold at 50c, 75c and $1 a bottle, throughout the United States and Canada; and in England, at 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d., and 5s. 6d. If you are not satisfied after buying, return the bottle to your druggist, and get your money back. We authorize the above guarantee. W. H. HOOKER & CO., Proprietors, New York. For sale by R. G. SHOULTS, Druggist, Sonoma.

FOR MALARIA, CHILLS AND FEVER.

The Best Prescription Is Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.

The Formula Is Plainly Printed on Every Bottle, So That the People May Know Just What They Are Taking.

Imitators do not advertise their formula knowing that you would not buy their medicine if you knew what it contained. Grove's contains Iron and Quinine put up in correct proportions and is in a Tasteless form. The Iron acts as a tonic while the Quinine drives the malaria out of the system. Any reliable druggist will tell you that Grove's is the Original and that all other so-called "Tasteless" chill tonics are imitations. An analysis of other chill tonics shows that Grove's is superior to all others in every respect. You are not experimenting when you take Grove's—its superiority and excellence having long been established. Grove's is the only Chill Cure sold throughout the entire malarial sections of the United States. No Cure, No Pay. Price, 50c.

FREE RURAL DELIVERY.

To Be Inaugurated September 1st—Area Embraces 24 Square Miles.

Sonoma is to have a free rural delivery. It will be inaugurated September 1st and will take in a scope of territory embracing twenty-four square miles. The route, which will be in charge of L. H. Guyot, has an estimated population of 600 and 148 houses. It extends west as far as Sonoma creek and from thence up the creek to Verano station. It takes in all the country surrounding the Vineburg and San Luis postoffices, but does not interfere with the El Verano and Agua Caliente postoffices.

The service was bitterly opposed by the people of Vineburg and San Luis, but the opposition came too late.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM BEING BURNED TO DEATH

Mrs. J. A. Perkins' Dress Ignited by a Lighted Match Thoughtlessly Cast Aside.

Mrs. J. A. Perkins, one of Sonoma Valley's well known lady residents, had a narrow escape from being burned to death the other evening. In lighting a lamp the burning end of the match broke off and fell to the floor and was extinguished, as Mrs. Perkins supposed. Not so, however, as the lighted tip lodged in the folds of her dress and in a few seconds the garment was enveloped in flames. Her cries for assistance brought to her aid her daughter, Miss Cora Perkins, and a young lady guest. With rare presence of mind the young ladies hastily tore down a pair of portiers and threw them around the blazing dress and smothered the flames. It was a close call from a horrible death. Miss Perkins, who proved herself a real heroine and risked her life to save that of her mother, was painfully burned about the hands. Mrs. Perkins was also severely burned about the body and arms.

CHAS. OHM WINS OUT IN SAN LUIS.

As predicted in these columns last week there was "a hot time in the old town" last Tuesday, the occasion being the Republican primaries.

There were two tickets in the field. One of these represented the Bosses of Santa Rosa, who want to control all the official patronage of the county. The other ticket was opposed to them and their style of doing "clean politics."

In so far as Sonoma was concerned the Bosses push, represented by ex-Marshall Breitenbach of Santa Rosa and J. E. Poppe, resorted to unscrupulous methods and dirty politics to carry this precinct, and they are being denounced by fair-minded Republicans of both factions for turning from the polls a number of Republicans.

These "clean politics" worthies controlled the ballot box and as judges of election absolutely refused to let a large number of Republicans vote, arrogantly claiming that they were Democrats, although the rejected voters offered to swear before a Notary Public to support the Republican nominees. The result was that the election was a farce and a disgrace to the party.

Voters not in accord with their faction were brutally challenged and denied their right to cast a ballot by the arrogant judges of election and as a result a number of Republicans refused to go to the polls at all for fear of being insulted and brow-beaten by those exponents of "clean politics."

In so far as the primary in Sonoma is concerned the County Committee might just as well have waived the formality of a primary and named the delegates for the voters and been done with it.

So much for the kick. Now for the result:

For delegates to the County Convention J. M. Cheney, G. H. Hotz and V. Bulotti were chosen in the Sonoma precinct. They are unpledged.

In San Luis the Ohm delegates were elected as follows: Charles H. Ohm, N. R. Knight and Robt. Douglas. These delegates are pledged to vote for Mr. Ohm for Supervisor.

In Agua Caliente Ed. Goethe and Hugh Maxwell were elected. Mr. Goethe favors Putnam for Supervisor. Mr. Maxwell is unpledged.

In Glen Ellen Harry Weise and Henry Martens were elected delegates to the County Convention. Weise is said to favor Mr. Putnam for Supervisor and Martens is opposed to him and favors Mr. Ohm.

Special Train Service.

The California Northwestern Railway Company announces in another column a special train service for the Admission Day Celebration in San Francisco. One fare will be charged for the round trip from all Sonoma Valley towns. These fares will be sold on Saturday and Sunday, September 8th and 9th, and on Monday and Tuesday, September 10th and 11th, good going on all trains and returning on all trains on Wednesday, September 12th.

He Will Recover.

George Knox, who was all but killed by the explosion of a threshing machine engine on the Potter ranch a couple of weeks ago, was removed to his home in Napa last Monday. For a time his life was despaired of but under the skillful treatment of Dr. Hennessey of Napa he is now out of danger.

He will lose the sight of one of his eyes, however, and will never be the man he was before the accident. The others injured in the accident have entirely recovered from their injuries.

Queen vs. Bocca.

Frederick Quien, through his attorney R. S. Leppo, has filed a motion in the Superior Court in the action of Quien vs. Bocca, in which the court will be asked for an order to dismiss and deny the motion for a new trial and to refuse to settle the bill of exceptions.

THE FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

Successfully Inaugurated Thursday Evening.

The Sonoma Farmers' Institute was successfully inaugurated in Union Hall Thursday and Friday evenings. The session was conducted by Professors Fowler and Bioletti of the University of California, assisted by Rev. Mr. Pearce, Hon. Robt. Howe, F. T. Duhring, Dr. A. E. Osborne, W. O. Hocker, Benj. Weed and Rev. C. D. Milliken.

The various numbers on the programme were interspersed with vocal solos by Mrs. Lulu de Emparan, Miss N. Harashty, Miss Leo Schiller and Benj. Weed.

On Thursday evening Hon. Robt. Howe delivered the opening remarks, and was followed by Rev. Henry Pearce with an invocation. Mr. Fred T. Duhring delivered an interesting address and Professor Fowler told what the institute was accomplishing. Professor Bioletti delivered a lecture on grapes for various localities and purposes. A vocal solo by Miss N. Harashty ended the session for the first evening.

Friday morning the session was devoted to discussing "Orchard Topics" by Prof. Fowler; "Olive Culture," Dr. Osborne; "Utility of Farmers' Organizations," Prof. Fowler; "The Physiology of the Vine," Prof. Bioletti, and the Question Box.

The afternoon session Friday was consumed in a lecture on the "Value of Higher Education to the Farmer" by Mr. W. O. Hocker; "Mildew and other Fungus Diseases of the Vine," Prof. Bioletti; "The Poultry Industry," Prof. Fowler; "Wine Making in the Future," Prof. Bioletti.

Last night "Civilization and the Farmer" was the theme of Mr. Benj. Weed's discourse; Rev. C. D. Milliken delivered an address and Prof. Fowler gave a lecture on "Young Men in California Agriculture."

The session last night was largely attended and the institute concluded with a grand ball.

THAT CONTEMPLATED EXTENSION.

The California Northwestern to Commence Work at Once.

The California Northwestern Railway Company will spend $2,000,000 in an immediate extension of its lines into the redwood timber district of Mendocino County. The company has had its surveyors at work laying out a route for over a year, and they are expected to complete their task during the present week.

Three different routes have been surveyed. One begins at Cloverdale and extends west into the Coast Range for sixty miles. A second route is west from Hopland, and the third is north from Ukiah. Which of these three routes is the most feasible is a matter that the company is now trying to determine. Much will depend upon the report of the surveyors.

It is understood the people of Ukiah are making a strong fight to have the road start from that place, which is now the terminus of the so-called "Picturesque route of California." It has long been the dream of the Ukiah property owners that some day the company would build to Eureka, which is 180 miles north of Ukiah, and they figure that if another line is once started from the town it will mean ultimately a through route to Eureka.

President A. W. Foster of the California Northwestern said yesterday, however, that an extension to Eureka was a matter that positively could not be considered now. The company's charter will not permit the construction of more than sixty more miles of track in Mendocino county.

"Our purpose in building," he said, "is largely to reach the timber districts. The question of freight will figure very prominently in determining the starting point for the extension. The passenger traffic is a secondary consideration."

A single track will be constructed and the cost of building the road will be large owing to the mountainous region it will traverse. A good deal of blasting will have to be done and there will have to be several tunnels constructed.—Call.

Forty Years Among the Cannibals.

The French adventurer who was a captive among a cannibal tribe in Central Africa, for forty years, has decided to write a book describing his adventures. No doubt it will prove interesting reading, and we can sympathize with his release from his terrible captivity, which must have been as joyous as that of a man who finds himself suddenly released from the captivity of a refractory stomach, by that peerless remedy, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This medicine has done more to promote the health of the American people than any other in existence, and has a record of fifty years of cures to back it up. This is the medicine to take, if you are a sufferer from dyspepsia, constipation, indigestion, biliousness, nervousness or insomnia. Don't fail to give it a trial. Ask for Hostetter's and do not accept a substitute. The genuine has Private Revenue Stamp over the neck of bottle.

AS THE PANSY NODDED

The villagers never knew just what to make of old man Northrup, and, as for old man Northrup, he didn't understand the villagers, nor did he try. The townsfolk said the aged resident was a man without a purpose and with a knowing wink would call him "quack."

Long before, when folks then grown up were babies, Northrup came to town unannounced and unaccompanied. Soon the rumor spread that he was rich and that he had selected the town for his country home because it was in the midst of the nature that he loved.

Back from the town on a sloping hillside the stranger bought a little plot and the dreams of the gossips that he was to build a mansion were dissipated when he erected there a little frame cottage of two rooms. Then, when he bought meager furniture of the simplest sort, the ones who had called him rich began to doubt, until the village banker, who measured the worth of men by their worldly goods, announced one day, "Mr. Northrup is a gentleman."

This was convincing, and thereafter the new resident was looked upon as a miser whose vagaries had led him from the cities and who was content to live his life out alone in the little cottage on the hillside.

Years passed, and "Mr. Northrup, gentleman," became known to the younger generation only as old man Northrup. The children shunned his house, though he never discouraged them. He seemed content in his solitude and appeared to find companions in the growing things about him. He would raise a little garden to the back of his house in the spring time and would divide his time between this and the bed of flowers—carefully cared for flowers—which grew just under his window.

Now and then some one from the village would call on the old man as a matter of duty, but their visits would be cut short.

"A pleasant day," the visitor would venture.

"Yes," old man Northrup would answer. "It's fine weather for my flowers."

The village parson, a truly good man, one day concluded that old man Northrup needed in his closing days the solace of the religion he professed and that if the old man would not come to his church he would go to him. This was the crystallization of the reflections of a score of years, and when the parson finally had made up his mind to devote himself to the spiritual welfare of the recluse he went in haste to the old man's cottage.

The parson stopped by the gate and rested his elbows on the crumbling stone wall that surrounded the little house. It was a bright day in May and all nature seemed aglow. It was just the day for old man Northrup and his flowers, and, as the parson had expected, the recluse was there, with a sprinkling pot, watering now one plant, now another, with a care that seemed reverent. The parson spoke, and the bent figure of the old man straightened. "Something like a frown appeared on his forehead as he recognized the visitor, but he cheerily bade him enter."

"I have come," said the parson solemnly, "with a message from the world. The world misses you, Mr. Northrup, and the little part of it I represent asks that you return, if only for an hour each Sabbath. Won't you, sir, do us the honor to worship with us once a week? The villagers—all of them—would welcome you."

"The religion," the good man went on, "would comfort you now that your end is near. The tomb is for us all, but your cruel outlines are softened when we know there is a world beyond and that we have earned our residence there."

Old man Northrup moved to the doorstep, just beside the bed of flowers. The parson sat down. Then the old man knelt at the parson's feet, turned to the flower bed and tenderly lifted the drooping carnation blossom that was nearest to his visitor.

"The tomb is for us all, well you say, parson," he said slowly, "and religion is the solace of a tired soul. My soul, sir, has been weary for many years, but it has had its solace."

"What is religion, parson? Is it not to worship the things we love? I love my flowers, and I worship them, for they are more than things to me. Like you I believe in another life, and, like you, I have tried to deserve one. This flower, parson, is it only a flower to you?"

"It was no doubt a pretty flower before it withered," said the minister; "but I hardly understand."

"None of them do," said the old man with a sigh; "and that is why I left the world. They laugh when I tell them that these flowers are the spirits of my friends who have gone before. They say that I am crazy because my dead friends return to me as flowers, and they ask me to believe that they exist in some other sphere."

"See this great pansy, with its bright, smiling face? See it nod to me in recognition? That, parson, is my little girl, the only one I ever had, who died more than 50 years ago. Each year through all the long half century she has returned to me in pansy form to tell me that she is waiting somewhere, some distant where, for me to come. She is faithful to me, and I am faithful to her."

"Parson, I have my solace."

The old man bowed his head, and when the parson spoke he did not answer. Then the parson, fearing to disturb him in his reverie, went his way.

As the bright day wore on a passerby chanced to look over the stone wall. The birds were chirping in the trees, a gentle breeze swayed the foliage and the slanting rays of the lowering sun cast a melow sheen over the scene before him. There was the bed of flowers, and across it a prostrate figure.

Old man Northrup was dead, and the pansy, drooping a little with the dying day, was nodding and bowing at his cold but smiling face.—Exchange.

Gallows Birds.
The most famous bird in this direction was the tomcat that built its nest in Tom Otter's skull. Tom Otter was hanged in 1808 at Lincoln and gibbeted in a lane near Saxilby, still called Gibbet lane, where he had murdered his victim. A pair of tomcats made their nest in his skull.

Ten tongues in one head.
Nine living and one dead;
One flew forth to fetch some bread
To feed the living and the dead.

An old lady who died in recent years could remember when a girl passing the gibbet on Bradenham heath and not feeling the nest of a starling in the ribs of the skeleton.—Pictorial Magazine.

A Mother Tells How She Saved Her Little Daughter's Life.

I am the mother of eight children and have had a great deal of experience with medicines. Last summer my little daughter had the dysentery in its worst form. We thought she would die. I tried everything I could think of, but nothing seemed to do her any good.

I saw by an advertisement in our paper that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was highly recommended and sent and got a bottle at once. It proved to be one of the very best medicines we ever had in the house. It saved my little daughter's life. I am anxious for every mother to know what an excellent medicine it is. Had I known it at first it would have saved me a great deal of anxiety and my little daughter much suffering.—Yours truly, Mrs. G. K. F. BIRNICK, Liberty, R. I. For sale by F. Duhring.

The White is King of Sewing Machines and Bicycles.

The application of ball bearings to our Sewing Machines has reduced friction to a minimum and emphasizes more strongly than ever the title of "LIGHT RUNNING WHITE." Elegantly enbossed woodwork, smooth band-iron-work, easily kept clean, the finest set of attachments, automatic tension indicator and releaser, oil cups and needle bar—these are only a few of the many labor-saving devices applied to the WHITE.

The White Bicycle stands on its own merits. During the past few years its reputation has been maintained as the most durable, beautiful and lightest running wheel. The White holds all Pacific Coast records, from a quarter of a mile to the century, as well as the world's mile record, and in the International Six-Day Tournament, held in San Francisco last year, the White won four out of eight prizes, no other make of wheel taking more than one of the rest. We have dealers in Sewing Machines and Bicycles almost everywhere. If there is none in your town, write for catalogue and prices.
